AP Updates — March 27, 2020

Dear Eagle Mountain-Saginaw ISD Families,

I hope your AP student is transitioning well with EMS ISD Distance Learning. As you know, College Board has determined up to this point that Advanced Placement testing will still occur, although in alternate formats. AP teachers have been communicating with students regularly and will continue to do so to ensure they are equipped for the expectations of the course. Due to the demands of AP courses and expectations set by College Board, AP students will receive specific instructional plans from their AP teachers rather than website postings. Helpful informational updates will be posted on the distance learning website.

Below are a few valuable resources that you may find helpful for your AP student:

According to AP:

- Exam information will be shared via the AP Coronavirus Update link (see below) on April 3
- There will be two dates for 2019-2020 AP exams at a date to still be determined by College Board
- AP is providing review lessons and videos for students to support them in their test preparations. The lessons cover:
  - 75% review from what has been covered in AP classes;
  - 25% supplemental lessons.

Please contact your AP teacher if you have any questions related to AP. I also am happy to assist you. We are all here to support and guide your student to academic success in Advanced Placement courses.

Thank you,

Lori Mabry
